

LITIGATION SUPPORT SERVICES

Green Star provides litigation support services to aid clients and their legal teams in their environmental projects, due diligence, cost recovery efforts and litigation.

Technical support can range from expert testimony on a specific technical issue to technical review of numerous issues for multi-site acquisitions. Green Star has a successful track record of teaming with law firms. Green Star has the ability to translate the technical issues in an understandable fashion, allowing clients and their legal experts to understand the complex issues to effectively make good legal and business decisions. In environmental issues understanding the technical issues and how they affect contracts, sales, finances, insurance and regulations can be crucial.

Green Star's experience with large remedial cleanups has promoted the thinking of the defensibility for work completed years ahead of the potential cost recovery efforts or litigation that may follow. Being proactive and getting ahead of the game may make the difference in recovering funds from insurance, previous owners or additional responsible parties. Green Star may also recognize potential liabilities that other companies might overlook. This can allow for reserves to be allocated and responses to be formulated in advance.
